

Development Timelines

- Long planning timelines and our low existing land supply means that Edmonton has to start planning now to be able to accommodate our projected future growth.
- There are many opportunities for public engagement throughout the development process.