Application Process for Two Approvals

There are two types of applications which require approval before operating a business out of your home.

1. The first step is to apply for a development permit. The development permit is the approval which permits business activities to be conducted from a residential property.
2. The second step is to apply for a business licence. The business licence is the approval which legally allows you to operate your business.

General Information

- If you do not own the dwelling or live in a condominium, it is recommended that you obtain permission to operate your business from the owner or condominium board however be advised this is not a requirement when making an application.
- The technical advisor relies on the information provided when making a decision on whether to approve or refuse an application. Providing complete information will help ensure an appropriate decision is made. Once a decision is made refunds cannot be requested.
- The technical advisor has the right to refuse an application if the proposal is more appropriately located in a commercial or industrial location rather than a residential district. If an application is refused, you have the right to appeal the decision at the Subdivision & Development Appeal Board.
- Before an approved 'Major Home Based' development permit can be issued the technical advisor must send notices to the community league and property owners within a 60 metre (196.85 foot) radius of the property. The notice (letter) will tell about your application and your neighbours will have the opportunity to appeal the approval. Neighbours can contact our office to find out more about the application details.
- If no appeals were made to the Subdivision & Development Appeal Board within 14 days of the date the notice was created, the development permit is then deemed valid and can be issued. Then the business licence application can be reviewed.
- In the event that your application is appealed, providing a detailed description of the business and activities to the Subdivision & Development Appeal Board will help to provide a better understanding of your business application.
