Application Process for Two Approvals

There are two types of applications which require approval before operating a business out of your home.

1. The first step is to apply for a development permit. The development permit is the approval which permits business activities to be conducted from a residential property.
2. The second step is to apply for a business licence. The business licence is the approval which legally allows you to operate your business.

General Information

- o If you do not own the dwelling or live in a condominium, it is recommended that you obtain permission to operate your business from the owner or condominium board. However, be advised this is not a requirement when making an application.
- o The technical advisor relies on the information provided when making a decision on whether to approve or refuse an application. Providing complete information will help ensure an appropriate decision is made. Once a decision is made refunds cannot be requested.
- o The technical advisor has the right to refuse an application if the proposal would be more appropriately located in a commercial or industrial zone rather than a residential zone. If your application is refused, you have the right to appeal the decision at the Subdivision & Development Appeal Board within 21 days of the decision.
- o If a 'Major Home Based' development permit is issued, the technical advisor must send notices to the community league and property owners within a 60 metre (196.85 foot) radius of the property. The notice (letter) will inform your neighbours about your business and allow them the opportunity appeal the approval should they feel that your business will have adverse impacts on the neighbourhood. Neighbours can contact our office to find out more about the application details.
- o The development permit becomes valid if no appeals were made to the Subdivision & Development Appeal Board within 21 days of the notification date. Then the business licence application can be reviewed.
- o In the event that your application is appealed, providing a detailed description of the business and activities to the Subdivision & Development Appeal Board will help to provide a better understanding of your business application.

Home Based Business Regulations

- o Cannot have mechanical or electrical equipment that is visible; create external noise or audible interference with electronic equipment in adjacent dwellings.
- o Cannot have outdoor business activity or outdoor storage of materials, equipment or goods on site.
- o The business cannot change the character or outside appearance of the dwelling or accessory structures.
- o Cannot keep more than one commercial vehicle of 4,600 kg or less in a residential area for longer than is reasonable to load or unload the vehicle.
- o Cannot keep any commercial vehicle that exceeds 4,600 kg either unloaded or loaded in a residence.
