

CLIMATE RESILIENCY

Edmonton is our home.

No matter who forms the next provincial government, Edmonton is essential to Alberta's future. We need to work together with the Government of Alberta to build a thriving, safe, sustainable and welcoming city for every Edmontonian.

That's why, this provincial election, we need to Ask About Edmonton.

Asking about Edmonton is a great way to start a positive conversation about the kind of city we want to live in, and for your voice to be heard in the 2023 Alberta General Election.

Our city is getting bigger and we have to be greener as we grow.

Taking action on climate change will protect our health, environment, economy and quality of life. This election, ask your provincial candidates about climate resilience.

Did you know?

- The four main sources of greenhouse gas emissions in Edmonton are:
  - Transportation
  - Manufacturing, industry and construction
  - Commercial and institutional buildings
  - Residential buildings
- Edmonton's vision of reaching carbon neutrality is achievable, but will require significant public and private investment of about $42 billion over the next 30 years.
- City Council approved $278.3 million over 2023-26 to advance Edmonton's energy transition and climate adaptation.
- The City estimates one hydrogen bus can reduce emissions emissions by over 3,600 tonnes of carbon dioxide, which is an 80 to 85% reduction in greenhouse gas emissions over a period of 15 years compared to a diesel bus.

Conversation starters:

- What is your party's plan to help Edmonton with climate resilience?
- One of the City of Edmonton's biggest sources of emissions comes from public transit buses. Will your party help support Edmonton's move to zero-emissions buses, like the hydrogen bus, so Edmonton's environment can be protected?
- How will your party help Edmonton reach its goal of carbon neutrality?
