I know I have arrived at Makira Outpost when I see a wood and glass building with a sign that says Makira Outpost. I may see lemurs inside this building.

I may see lemurs inside this area. The indoor lemur exhibit is behind glass. Inside this building, I may see other people looking at the animals.

In the winter, the lemurs will not be in their outdoor viewing yard because it is too cold. If I visit the zoo in the summer, I may see lemurs here.

I may see red pandas in their exhibit. They may be on the ground or high up in the trees.

I can play here in the red panda play area if I want to.

This ice cream shop is called Moo at the Zoo and it is closed in the winter. If I visit in the summer, I can buy ice cream here if I want to.

I will know I have arrived at the Urban Farm when I see a long wooden building.

I may see farm animals in the stables here. There may be a strong animal scent in this building. Some of the animals, like the sheep, may make loud noises. I can wear my ear defenders if I want to.

I may see farm animals in their outdoor enclosures. I can sit on a bench to watch them and take a break if I want to.

There is a restaurant at the Urban Farm where I may be able to buy something to eat. If I want to, I can sit inside the restaurant to eat or sit at one of the outdoor tables.

The Urban Farm building has washrooms I can use if I need to. The men's and women's washrooms each have a wheelchair accessible stall and a baby change table. There are also more wheelchair accessible stalls near the restaurant in this building.
