Moving Forward – Updated Mandate for the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities

1.0 Introduction

The Board members of the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities have been working on a renewal process that has involved clarifying and redefining the mandate, role and key functions of the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities. The renewal process was initiated after a review in late 2011 of the history, operations and current opportunities facing the Board. The review process pointed to a proud history of the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities affecting policies and practices in the areas of inclusion and accessibility in the City of Edmonton.

The review also created an opportunity to further align the work of the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities with Council's strategic direction as articulated in "The Way We Live" which outlines Council's vision and strategic direction for the Edmonton community. Since its inception, the Advisory Board has focused attention on enhancing policies and practices of inclusion and accessibility for persons with disabilities. The 2011 review process has further aligned the work of the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities with that of Council in the following areas:

- the continued need for Council to demonstrate continued leadership in the areas of inclusion and accessibility for Edmonton's citizens
- the opportunity to recognize and include the contributions of a diverse range of organizations dedicating themselves, along with Council and the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities, to specific issues and opportunities that are of importance to the various communities of persons with disabilities in the City of Edmonton
- the opportunity for the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities to engage with, and include these diverse voices in its advisory role to Council
- the opportunity for the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities to redefine how it operates at the strategic policy level of the City, and the associated need for new administrative support in order to achieve success this area.

2.0 Council and the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities Shared Vision for Our Community

In order to ensure alignment with Council, the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities looked to Council's vision for the Edmonton community and its strategic direction as specifically articulated in the "The Way We Live: Edmonton's People Plan". Aligning the advisory role of the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities and Council's direction is specifically found in the following excerpts for "The Way We Live":

Goal Three: Edmonton is a Caring, Inclusive and Affordable Community.

Edmontonians care for each other. They want a city where all people have opportunities to achieve their aspirations. Residents appreciate a caring community is one that extends itself to all residents including vulnerable populations.

Specific Objectives Supporting Goal Three:

"The Way We Live" further articulates Council's direction in the following objectives: The City of Edmonton nurtures a caring and inclusive society.

- The City of Edmonton increases opportunities to improve the lives of its vulnerable population.
- The City of Edmonton reduces physical and financial barriers to housing, transportation, libraries, recreation, social and leisure opportunities for residents.
- The City of Edmonton lives its commitment to create a caring community.

Linking the work of the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities to Council's strategic direction has helped the Board redefine its role as supporting Council in the development and monitoring of policies and practices relative to persons with disabilities. This redefinition is reflected in the outline of the Board's recommended mandate, role and functions in the following pages.

3.0 Mandate and Role of the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities

The fundamental mandate of the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities centers on the Board as an advisory body to Council. This mandate requires an understanding of the needs of the community at large and determining the link of these needs to Council's strategy and policy direction. As an advisory body on the status of persons with disabilities, the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities undertakes a significant role in helping Council address the manner in which their strategies and policies affect people with disabilities in Edmonton.

This mandate requires that the Advisory Board, through new processes of community engagement and information gathering and exchange be clearly connected to the broad community. To do so, the Advisory Board requires research and information processes enabling it to understand issues affecting persons with disabilities on a community level. In order to undertake this strong strategy/policy advisory role for Council, the Board will work with Administration in 2013 to gain a broader knowledge of community-wide issues affecting persons with disabilities.

To achieve this mandate, the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities must be, and must be seen to be, a collaborative and collective voice to City Council for Edmontonians with disabilities.

As well, the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities believes its value to Council can be enhanced by focusing in the following areas of policy advice to Council:

- at the point where policy is being developed by senior administration and Council in areas affecting persons with disabilities;
- in areas where senior administration and/or Council are contemplating changes to existing policy;
- as a policy review body, proactively choosing 1-2 broad policy areas (eg. Housing) on an annual basis that the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities would review and advise Council on these policy areas.

To work in these policy areas, new processes of collaboration will need to be developed with senior administration to ensure the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities has the necessary information, and points of contact, to be effective in this policy advisory role. A new administrative protocol has been developed to reflect the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities' focus (see Section 5.0 of this document).

To effectively undertake its mandate in the area of policy advice, the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities will focus on the following priority activities:

- 1. To advise Council and Administration on potential policies, or policy changes that affect access, inclusion and issues of concern to persons with disabilities.
- 2. To participate in and sponsor events and opportunities that enhance overall awareness of inclusion and accessibilities issues in our community.
- 3. To engage with the broad communities of persons with disabilities in a meaningful way and ensure the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities has the necessary information to undertake its advisory role.
- 4. To educate Council, Administration and the public on issues of inclusion and accessibility.

The Core Activities or Functions of the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities

As part of the renewal process, the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities reviewed the existing functions of the Board as stated in its Bylaw to determine whether a given function was still valid in light of the revised mandate of the Advisory Board on Services for Persons with Disabilities or required amending or elimination. After review, the Board has developed a restated set of functions (with some changes to the current Bylaw) as follows:

 As identified in "The Way We Live", help Council improve Edmonton's livability by providing advice to Council on matters affecting the status of persons with disabilities in our community.
