AMBITION:
A Thriving and Well-Funded Arts and Heritage Ecosystem

CONNECTIONS & EXCHANGES:
A 10-Year Plan To Transform Arts and Heritage In Edmonton
Edmonton is a city that supports its cultural ecosystem with purpose, vision and flexibility. Funding models and strategies focus on fostering, attracting and retaining artists and heritage practitioners, and creating cascading, long-term impacts for the cultural ecosystem, and therefore Edmonton as a whole.
STRUCTURE

Each book describes the structure of the plan:

- The name of the ambition and the vision it imagines for Edmonton in 10 years;
- Which of Council’s Strategic Plan goals the ambition aligns with;
- The aims required to realize the ambition;
- The actions that drive the completion of each aim, as well as articulating the responsible organization for each specific action.

MEASUREMENT

Alongside the actions and under each aim is the way the Measurement, Evaluation and Learning framework will be applied (“How We Will Measure Progress”). These sections will also indicate the chosen measurement indicators, the determined approach to measure that indicator, and the frequency of that measurement.

Overall, the MEL framework incorporated into this plan allows for modern cultural planning that is increasingly accountable and open to stakeholders, practitioners and community alike.

CONSIDERING INDIGENOUS CULTURAL INDEPENDENCE

As reflected in the treaty relationship acknowledgement in this report, the plan makes a commitment to the Indigenous people of this territory. Accordingly, in the course of developing and carrying out implementation plans, the Edmonton Arts Council (EAC), the Edmonton Heritage Council (EHC) and Arts Habitat Edmonton (ArtsHab) have committed to the following implementation principle throughout this 10-Year Plan:

Indigenous peoples have agency in their journeys of revitalizing and participating in traditional, contemporary and future manifestations of their culture.

Indigenous Peoples of this territory freely choose whether or not to participate in Edmonton’s arts and heritage sectors and they determine how they will participate. This principle ensures that the EAC, EHC and ArtsHab deliver the plan in such a way that we never create barriers or interfere with the ongoing development of Indigenous cultural independence.

MOVING THE PLAN FORWARD

As we use the plan as the definitive direction to carry out our transformative change over the next decade, it is essential that it remains responsive to the real-time evolution of the city and adapt to the changing arts and heritage landscape. For the plan to succeed, the EAC, EHC and ArtsHab will continue to engage in ongoing conversations and consultations with the community and the arts and heritage sector throughout the lifetime of this plan.
Edmonton’s neighbourhoods come alive with meaningful and relevant opportunities for participation and engagement.

Edmontonians feel a sense of belonging and connectedness to peoples, places and stories.

Arts and Heritage leaders are actively engaged in civic planning and implementation.

Conditions are in place to remove barriers for all Edmontonians to participate in cultural experiences.

A framework to help funders to develop and improve their own impact practice, can guide strategic investment.

Funding Mechanisms: There is a new approach to funding mechanisms that moves away from discipline-based grants to focus on the interrelationship of an arts ecosystem (research and development, creation, production, presentation, distribution, market development). In its Creative Strategy, the City of Melbourne has developed a strategic funding framework that has the ability to define strategic priorities over time and allows opportunities to shift priorities in order to support specific areas of the ecosystem in need of attention at specific moments in time. Presentation in rural areas, support for international exchange, new investment for emerging artists, and the integration of new technologies in artistic creation are examples of how a focus on the arts ecosystem can guide strategic investment.

Funding Partnership Framework: A framework to help funders to develop and improve their own impact practice, and the impact practice of the people and organizations they support. The Edmonton Artists’ Trust Fund (EATF) is a joint project of the Edmonton Arts Council and Edmonton Community Foundation and is designed to invest in Edmonton’s creative community and to encourage artists to stay in the community. On a more comprehensive scale, the Arts Impact Fund (UK) launched in 2015 is a collaborative project by Bank of America, Merrill Lynch, Arts Council England, Nesta, and the Esmée Fairbairn and Calouste Gulbenkian foundations. Run by Nesta, the pilot program provides loan-financing to eligible arts organizations, and brings together expertise from the arts sector with charitable foundations, investors, and social impact specialists in order to:

- Identify arts organizations seeking to expand or scale-up their work.
- Contribute to the debate on how to track and report on artistic and social outcomes within the wider arts sector.
- Establish understanding of the demand for social impact funding from arts-based organizations.
- Demonstrate how arts organizations can generate both financial and social returns.
- Promote case studies of arts organizations improving organizational resilience through social investment.
- Establish the fund mechanics, metrics on loss/default rates, and returns to potentially allow for a larger fund in the future.
