Key

Protected Bike Lane
On-street protected bike lanes are separated from moving and parked cars. These lanes will be either raised to the level of the sidewalk, or have a physical barrier, making cycling more comfortable. Protected Bike Lanes may allow for travel in one or both directions.

Painted Bike Lanes
On-street bike lanes marked with paint and designated for bikes only.

Shared Roadway (Lower traffic)
Cyclists and motorists share the roadway on relatively quiet streets. These routes are marked with blue or green bike route signs or painted markings on the roadway. These are considered good routes for cyclists.

Shared Roadway (Higher traffic)
Cyclists and motorists share the roadway on relatively busy main streets. These routes are marked with blue or green bike route signs or painted markings on the roadway. These routes have more vehicle traffic and are suitable for seasoned cyclists.

Shared Pathway
Paved, off-street paths made for many activities. You can bike, walk, run and more, except where otherwise indicated by signage.

Trail
Paths that are typically hard packed with gravel, wood chips or dirt. You can bike, walk, run and more except where otherwise indicated by local signage.
